THE BULLDOZER is fast becoming the symbol of Carmel Valley. This heavy equipment is carving out a new stretch of Carmel Valley Road near Los Tulares, east of the Village. One lane was washed out in the heavy rains of January, 1969, and motorists have inched around a one lane curve above a precipice ever since. This repair is not without agony, however, as it involves slashing away a hillside on the William Norton property on the north side of the road.

"ROAD WORK AHEAD" cautions this sign by Subud east of Carmel Valley Village. Traffic is subject to lengthy delays just ahead, although wily local motorists have discovered they can go up the hill through Los Tulares and come back down on the far side of the road repair work. Meanwhile, back west of the Village, cars are also slowed down while shoulder and road work is done around "Porter's curve" and the intersection of Country Club Drive.

TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

We see there is to be a movie theatre (2) in our village. Has anyone noted that if both theatres were filled up they would have 588 people and a parking space for 135 cars? OK — suppose by some remote chance both theatres were filled to capacity — where would they park at least 300 cars? Probably in the CVCYC's parking space, and that doesn't appeal to me at all!

I seriously doubt if Mr. Bolman has talked with any of the small businesses in our village. None of them are millionaires to my knowledge. They don't need any competition. Mr. Bolman says he is interested in doing something that's unusually good. What's unusually good about a shopping center when you can plainly see that Mid Valley shopping center still isn't filled up and now new businesses are in — and what's so good about a movie theatre and cars and traffic and stop lights and more accidents,etc.

It was pretty cute planning to conveniently not get any information to the Outlook before Thursday so no one would be able to attend last Wednesday's meeting.

Am I wrong, but aren't we being pushed into an awful lot of squeeze plays — Cachagua, Val Verde, Odello and now this Valley Plaza?! Something is wrong and I don't know how a handful of Carmel Valley people can fight it! Apparently the Monterey County Planning Commission has tabled it until May 14th so let's do something or we will be seeing a little San Jose here and I kid you not, that's exactly what we will have!

To All Parents and Friends of the Carmel Valley Little League:

The big season is here again and we wish to thank all the generous people of the valley who contributed to our "Bucks for Bats" drive last Saturday. The boys from the nine teams collected $560.00 which will be used to purchase equipment and also to put up a larger snack booth and indoor plumbing facilities. We expect this to be completed before June 1. Much appreciation is also due the fathers and other helpful men who helped organize the boys and drive them to the different areas on Saturday. The success of the drive was truly a community achievement. It is such support which keeps the program going year after year -- this year for more than 130 boys!

We have another request and that is that you Valleyites come to the Little League Field and share with the boys the excitement of this game. We guarantee you a few hours of real fun. Opening Day will be this Saturday, April 24 at 12:30 with ceremonies followed by a double-header. Subsequent games will be held every Saturday, all day from April 24 - July 4, and several afternoons during the week. Once again on July 4, we will host our annual steak Barbecue for all friends of Little League, so mark that date on your calendar.

One more word of appreciation -- and that goes to those individuals, clubs, and businesses who have contributed to the sponsoring of a team -- the Pirates - Will's Fargo, the Cougars - Belleci's State Farm, the Wolfpack - Willard Branson, the Cubs - Porter Marquard, the Hornets - Bank of America, the Lions - Carmel Valley Lions Club, the Volunteers - Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Department, the Indians - Carmel Valley Kiwanis, the Tigers - Rancho Canada Golf Club.

To the Editor:

Honorable Willard Branson
County Board of Supervisors

Salinas, California 93901

Dear Mr. Branson:

Recently, Pacific Telephone and Pacific Gas and Electric companies have completed undergrounding their utility lines along the Carmel Valley Road just east of Highway 1. This association wishes to express our greatest appreciation for the initiative that you and others in out county government have exercised in this accomplishment.

The removal of utility poles and wires in this area has opened views of the scenic Carmel Valley that will be enjoyed by thousands of residents and visitors each year.

We look forward to a continuance of this project along the entire Carmel Valley road as well as elsewhere in Monterey County.

Sincerely,
FRANK S. BRESK

Dear Editor:

I thank you for the coverage in the last Outlook, which accurately reported my statements in a previous meeting)padre Parents) and my statement in writing to The Outlook. If the people of this area want it the way it is, they can read it in the April 15 issue.

I have had many calls asking me whom I would recommend as the other two to be voted for, in this district. I have named Bob Oross, of course, as one of them.

The most needed communication necessary in this area has been, for many years, news one can trust. There was a time when not even a letter to the editor was spared hacking, rewriting, omissions, and rearrangement, so that one had reason to fear an "interview" even more.

Sincerely yours,
ELEANOR HORNE

BOB WOOD REPORTS. . .

A REGULAR COLUMN BY BOB WOOD, ASSEMBLYMAN - 34TH DISTRICT

While those of us in the State Legislature were in Easter recess last week, our Legislative Counsel's office in Sacramento, which drafts all bills in proper form for introduction by individual Legislators, was being swamped. The reason was the April 2 date line placed on the drafting of all bills for introduction for 1971 Session and the requests are likely to run into the hundreds.

The actual drafting of legislative bills calls for a highly specialized type of training and the draftsmen in the Legislative Counsel's office must have a thorough knowledge of the pertinent provisions of the state Constitution affecting legislation. He must have a very wide knowledge of the statutory law of the State in order to determine whether a desired result can best be obtained by amending some existing law or by enacting a new law.

Actually no bills are prepared by the members who introduce them. Even if a member is qualified, and almost 40 of our 80 Assemblymen are lawyers, it is seldom that even these lawyers can find the considerable amount of time necessary to do so. The work of actually putting the bill into words on paper is done by one of the 50 attorneys on the staff of the Legislative Counsel.

Maybe this is a good thing as there are 2 or 3 of us with agricultural backgrounds and several others that aren't lawyers who would have a heck of a time trying to apply the necessary legal language.

Unlike one of us, the Counsel's attorneys are not concerned with the policy or wisdom of a requested bill. Their only object is to prepare a bill in such shape that it will accomplish the desired object, that it will be constitutional and will be administratively workable.

With the growth of the State has come an intensification of the regulations which govern our movements so that there is hardly any activity in which we engage which is not affected by some permissive regulatory or restrictive legislation. I personally feel we have too many laws on the books now, and I can't help but feel that if many of the laws we already have on the books were enforced we wouldn't need so many new ones.

During the Easter recess I had reason to visit Jack Gill, well liked and well respected tenant on the Salinas Land Company. As I drove into the yard, I was greeted by 4 dogs and a goat. One day a woman on Highway 101 had car trouble and walked across the freeway to borrow the use of Gill's phone to call for help.

When she walked back to her car on the other side of the freeway, Charlie the goat followed her back. The poor lady was frantic as she knew Charlie might be hit by a speeding car or truck. She found an old belt in the car and managed to tie Charlie to the door handle on the side away from the traffic. She then returned to the Gill home and called the California Highway Patrol to help her. Three CHP cars in the area converged on the Gill ranch.

About that time Jack drove in and one of the CHP officers asked him if he owned a goat and of course Jack said yes and followed the CHP down the access road across both lanes of the freeway where Charlie had somehow managed to loosen himself from the makeshift leash and was quietly eating a few blades of grass next to the speeding traffic.

The officer, not knowing the goat was a family pet, asked Jack how he intended to handle the problem. And Jack said, "don't worry," opened the door of his ranch pick-up and yelled "get in Charlie, let's go". Charlie jumped up in the seat next to Jack, sat down on his haunches (I guess goats have haunches) and as good as implied, "OK, let's go". The officers were dumbfounded. One said to the other, "did you just see what I saw?" The other officer said, "yes, I saw it, but I don't believe it."

I'll bet the men of the CHP wish all their calls could be solved as easily as the loose goat on the freeway. Enuf for now.

The YWCA of the Monterey Peninsula is observing international YWCA Week with the announcement of a new series of spring classes which will begin during the next two weeks.

For the first time, the YWCA is scheduling courses in ballroom dancing for adults, building word skills, cake decorating, creative crafts, needlework, beginning Spanish and a conservation-oriented class entitled "Ecology Begins at Home."

Also being offered are courses in beginning, intermediate and advanced bridge; English conversation, modern dance and ballet; and slimnastics.

Information on registration and details on specific classes may be obtained by calling the YWCA office at 624-3506 between 10 a.m. and noon, or from 2 to 4 p.m.

The first annual meeting of the local YWCA will be a dinner at St. John's Church in Monterey on April 30. Reservations should be made through the YWCA office.

A Divorce Workshop is being held Tuesdays at 7 p.m. in Carmel for men and women who are separated, divorced or contemplating divorce. Sponsored by the University for Man, the group is designed to fill a need for those who have problems of adjustment and who need help and understanding in coping with them, not as a form of therapy.

The group seeks to increase their sensitivity to themselves and to others through a depth of understanding and a capacity to handle their lives satisfactorily.

Information on the workshop is available through the University for Man office at Monterey Peninsula College, 375-9821, ext. 248, between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Monterey Peninsula College will observe "Earth Week" with a series of special programs aimed at focusing public attention on ecology. Tonight, William Lindsay, MPC biology instructor and a California director of the national organization to limit population, will speak at 7:45 p.m. in the College Center on "The Principals of Zero Population Growth."

Tomorrow, which is officially "Earth Day," interested persons are being urged to attend a meeting of Monterey city officials and developers on the future of the Del Monte dunes at 8 p.m. in the Monterey Library.

On Friday, Frank Mullin, social researcher and Mensa Society member, will speak on "The Merchant Side Trip" in Lecture-Forum 103 at 7:30 p.m.

In addition, copies of a survival booklet edited by Steve Patrick, vice president of the MPC Environmental Action Committee, will be distributed free throughout the week. Printing costs have been defrayed by the student group's continuous collection, "stomping" and sale of aluminum cans for reprocessing.

Federal subsidy makes it possible:

Coalition urges county action to make flood insurance available

The Carmel Area Coalition has asked the Monterey County board of supervisors "to make prompt application" to federal authorities so that residents of unincorporated areas, particularly Carmel Valley, may become eligible for flood and mudslide insurance.

Flood insurance is not available from private underwriters, who refuse to write policies now because of the high risks involved. Under the terms of the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968, flood insurance became available to property owners, however, by means of federal subsidy.

At its meeting last week, the Carmel Valley Property Owners Assn. "strongly recommended that thorough studies be made of possible flood damage before granting zoning approval and the use permits requested" for the proposed $65 million development of the Odello artichoke ranch.

In a letter to the Monterey county planning commission, the CVPOA urged the county planners to direct the planning department to "require the developer to conduct thorough scale model testing of the flood plain" to determine the extent of the flood damage threat.)

In a letter to the board of supervisors, the Coalition said, "Local insurance agencies and companies have informed us that they are ready and willing to write flood coverage programs subsidized under the federal program.

"In return for making federally subsidized flood and mudslide insurance available to individual property owners from private insurance companies, the National Flood Insurance Act requires local governments to adopt land use and control measures that will guide future development of land in flood-prone areas," the letter continues, "in order to avoid or reduce future flood damage."

The Act also requires that adequate land use and control measures, with effective enforcement provisions, be adopted by local governing bodies by December 31, 1971.

The U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development last August issued an information bulletin on the flood insurance program, parts of which follow:

Appropriate officials of the community or county must indicate that there is a local need for flood and-or mudslide insurance coverage and give evidence of their desire to participate in the program ... the community's application must ... summarize measures (i.e. codes, ordinances, regulations) already in effect which are designed to reduce property damage from flooding or mudslides; provide copies of maps showing the areas in the community prone to flooding and a brief history of flooding and-or mudslides in the community; and, if available, furnish copies of any official reports on the community's flooding or mudslide problems ...

Second, the community must take legislative action formally committing itself to enact by December 31, 1971, and to maintain in force for areas having special flood hazards, adequate land use and control measures designed to reduce exposure to these hazards ... the community must also cooperate with the (federal) administrator in his efforts to bring the benefits of the program to the community.

Assistance in qualifying for flood insurance is available directly from the Federal Insurance Administration. After a community is declared eligible and flood insurance is made available, flood insurance may be purchased from any local property and casualty insurance agent or broker.

Properties eligible for flood insurance coverage are one-to-four family dwellings, properties principally occupied by small business concerns, and the contents of these types of properties.

The National Flood Insurance Act of 1968, as amended, requires that adequate land use and control measures with effective enforcement provisions be adopted and maintained by Dec. 31, 1971 in those communities in which flood insurance is being sold. If this provision is not met, the statute prohibits any new flood insurance from being sold within the community after that date, and existing flood insurance policies will not be renewed.

The Coalition letter, signed by Mrs. Phil Gibson for the Coalition Steering Committee, states further that "residents of 12 California Counties and numerous cities, including King City, are already insured under the programs, and that applications from several other California counties are being processed at this time."

These counties are Del Norte, Fresno, Lake, Los Angeles, Marin, Napa, Riverside, San Bernardino, San Diego, Sonoma, Tulare and Ventura.

According to the letter, "participation by 50 percent of California counties is anticipated by the end of this year, and 85-90 percent by the end of 1972."

The Coalition letter requested that the board of supervisors act by taking these steps:

"(1) That the county promptly initiate flood studies leading to the identification of areas having special flood hazards. With regard to the Carmel Valley, we suggest the possibility that the county might adopt the Army Corps of Engineers' maps identifying flood-prone areas in the valley. These maps are printed in the Corps of Engineers' publication "Flood Plain Information, Carmel River, Monterey County, California", dated May 1967;

"(2) That the county study and determine whether existing flood plain zoning ordinances, sections 28.3, 28.4 and 28.5 meet federal criteria for adequate land use controls, as outlined in the National Flood Insurance Act, Part 1910, Subpart A.; and

"(3) Assuming that county flood plain zoning ordinances sections 28.3, 28.4 and 28.5 do presently, or can be amended to satisfy federal criteria, that said ordinances be promptly made effective by means of actual zoning of flood-prone areas with appropriate FP-1, FP-2 or FP-3 designations."

Flood Plain zoning urgently requested by CVPOA board

Directors of the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association last week urged the Board of Supervisors to establish flood plain zoning in appropriate areas of Monterey County so that homeowners can qualify for federally subsidized flood insurance.

In a separate letter to the County Planning Commission, the CVPOA board asked that detailed flooding and earthquake studies by made of the Odello Ranch property before any plans for development are approved.

Here is the text of the letters:

Monterey County Board of Supervisors
County Courthouse
Salinas, California 93901

Reference: National Flood Insurance Program (H.U.D.)

Gentlemen:

At the January General Membership Meeting of the CVPOA, the subject of Federally subsidized flood insurance was brought up for consideration. Supervisor Branson commented at that meeting that the county government would cooperate in determining what was necessary to secure such an insurance subsidy from H.U.D. The CVPOA has been informed that the Board of Supervisors at the March 23 session expressed willingness to proceed with the necessary steps to make such flood insurance available to residents of Monterey County, if requested to do so by interested parties or organizations.

The Board of Directors of the CVPOA hereby urgently requests that this be done as expeditiously as possible. As you are aware, we are gravely concerned with the danger tohomes and property in Carmel Valley due to floods as a result of deterioration of the river bank vegetation combined with continued residential development of property near the river.

Time is short - we urge your immediate action.

Respectfully,
FRANK C. BRESK
Secretary
for the Board of Directors

County Courthouse

Attention: Mr. DeMars, Secretary

Gentlemen:

At your March 31, 1971, meeting, you directed the Planning Department to undertake detailed studies of various aspects and ramifications of the proposed development project for the Odello artichoke fields.

In view of the testimony by Col. Herman Schull (a retired officer of the U.S. Corps of Engineers) and others at this meeting, concerning the potential threat of severe flooding of this land, coupled with the proposed $65 million development proposed for this flood plain, we strongly recommend that thorough studies be made of possible flood damage before granting zoning approval and the use permits requested.

With the high density, large investment development proposed, flooding would be disastrous to county and state property, as well as to the future residents of the development. Such a disaster would have far-reaching consequences. In addition, as pointed out by Col. Schull, modifications to the property to prevent flooding may, in time, cause flooding to nearby property owned by others.

In view of this threat and to potential consequences, we recommend that the planning department require the developer to conduct thorough scale model testing of the flood plain to ascertain the nature and extent of such flood damage. Such scale model flood tests are standard civil engineering procedures for such major projects. The cost of such a test would be small compared to the cost of eventual flood damage.

In addition to the possibility of flood damage, it is our understanding that this property may be over an active earthquake fault. Such a fault, coupled with the properties of the alluvial soil in this area, could present another substantial risk.

It is our understanding that the National Earthquake Research Center of the U.S. Geological Survey, under the direction of Dr. W.H.K. Lee and Mr. G. Greene, have a current project underway concerning this specific fault zone. We urge that the planning department closely follow the work of this agency regarding the unique nature of this problem and that serious consideration be given to the results of this study.

Respectfully,
FRANK C. BRESK.
Secretary
for the Board of Directors

CV LITTLE LEAGUE OPENING DAY

Baseball comes to Carmel Valley on Saturday. Mrs. Roger Sherman, chairman of Opening Day Ceremonies announces - 12:30 the time ... CV Little League Field on Paso Hondo - the place. Among the introductions will be the four Major League teams; the five Farm teams, their managers, coaches, sponsors and LL officers for the 1971 season. The Tularcitos Band under the direction of John Farr will furnish the music for the occasion.

The first game will begin at 1:30 with the Volunteers meeting the Lions. Following their game, fans will have an opportunity to view the Indians vs. the Tigers. Lots of color and excitement on the Valley Diamond -- all games are free -- so plan to lend your support to the teams on Saturday.

Farm team play begins on Monday when the COUGARS coached by Andy Nottenkamper, managed by Joe De Maria, and sponsored by Barney Belleci's State Farm Insurance at Carmel Rancho are pitted against the PIRATES, sponsored by Wills Fargo, coached by Chick Costello and managed by Bud Platter. Farm team games begin at 5:30 and are held every Monday, Wednesday and Saturday mornings throughout the season.

Schedule for the coming week:

Tuesday - April 27 Tigers vs. Volunteers
Wednesday - April 28 Wolf Pack vs. Hornets
Thursday - April 29 Lions vs. Indians
Saturday - May 1 Cubs vs. Cougars
Saturday - May 1 Hornets vs. Pirates
Saturday - May 1 Indians vs. Volunteers
Saturday - May 1 Tigers vs. Lions
Monday - May 3 Wolf Pack vs. Cougars
Tuesday - May 4 Volunteers vs. Lions

YOU CAN HELP BUY PERMANENT OPEN SPACE!

A call for money to purchase the Odello Ranch...

The Odello Land Acquisition Fund ("OLAF") is pursuing the objective of public acqusition of the Odello Ranch, and is acting as the coordinating body for all fund raising and negotiating efforts for this purpose.

We wish to do this with fairness to the owner and the public.

General interest is growing in public ownership of the Odello ranch, particularly that half adjacent to the beach and bird sanctuary, and its dedication to some form of public open-space type use.

The crux of the matter is money. The owners will be approached regarding financial arrangements acceptable to them

City Reconstruction Corporation currently has this land under option from the Odellos and is proposing an 1,844-unit development through rezoning changes necessary to accomplish it.

The 4-month continuance granted on March 31 by the Monterey County Planning Commission on the developer's application for this proposed rezoning gives us time, but a short time, to develop plans for acquiring the property from the Odellos in order to put it to open-space use. Thus, we must act immediately!

OLAF is approaching all available conservation-oriented private foundations as well as governmental entities for funds and interest in this acquisition effort.

But the most important source of funds to help finance the Odello lease or purchase is you, the people of the area. The people of the Monterey Peninsula - Carmel - Carmel Valley Area must show the spirit and the interest to dip into their pockets in substantial support of this effort. If the local residents of this area won't "put their money where their mouths are," the effort to interest outside agencies will be difficult, if not impossible.

How much would it mean to you personally to prevent the massive 1,844-unit development that City Reconstruction Corporation proposes, with 3,800 additional residents on the Odello ranch?

How much would it mean to you personally to keep that area adjacent to the beach and bird sanctuary in open-space forever, for the enjoyment of yourselves, your children and future generations?

If you are personally willing to invest your funds in the future of our irreplaceable area, please contribute, in pledge or cash, what you think this effort is worth. Remember that, if we miss this opportunity, the open-space will be gone forever.

WILL YOU HELP?

If you are willing to either pledge money or contribute now to OLAF, for the purposes stated above, please phone 624-2820, or cut out this coupon and send to OLAF, today!

Needless to say, any gift will be returned to the donor in the event there is no possibility of acquiring the property.

Driftwood becomes "practical" sculpture for the home

In the hands of George Buck

It's an old adage that one man's junk is another man's treasure.

George Buck, a burly, curly-headed young man who grew up in Carmel Valley, has extended that idea a bit further by taking cast-offs from Nature and turning them into exquisite "practical" sculptures.

Driftwood is Buck's business, mammouth hunks of gnarled redwood, myrtle and pine which he salvages from beaches on the northern California and Oregon coasts. With the help of strong friends and a powerful crane, he hoists the massive chunks -- some weighing over two tons -- onto his pick-up truck and hauls them back to his outdoor studio-workshop on Cannery Row.

There, with the keen eye of an artist, he sizes up each piece to see how and where it should be sliced into broad slabs for tables, which will be mounted on bases also made of driftwood.

The result is so spectacular, and so popular, that in the year and a half Buck has been pursuing his career he has develo ed a national reputation for his "natural" tables which ' anywhere from $75 to $1000 apiece.

Buck is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Buck, who own and operate the Valley Hills Nursery. His interest in wood is a natural outgrowth of landscaping projects he undertook when working there. An inveterate beachcomber, he started by selling driftwood "as is" in front of the Wolter's Hacienda Market on Carmel Valley Road.

He later transferred his pile of driftwood to his open air "studio" at the foot of Hoffman Street on Cannery Row, and an unusual career was launched.

Buck, a hearty 24 years old, works at his wood sculpturing eight to ten hours day, seven days a week. During rainy periods in winter and spring he makes frequent trips up north to collect the choice pieces of wood that are washed down rivers to the ocean and eventually come to rest on isolated beaches.

'The tables themselves are like sculptures," Buck says of his work. "Your're putting a practical use to a sculpture. If I didn't make tables out of this wood, much of it would just be burned for beach fires. So I don't think I hurt anything by picking up some of it."

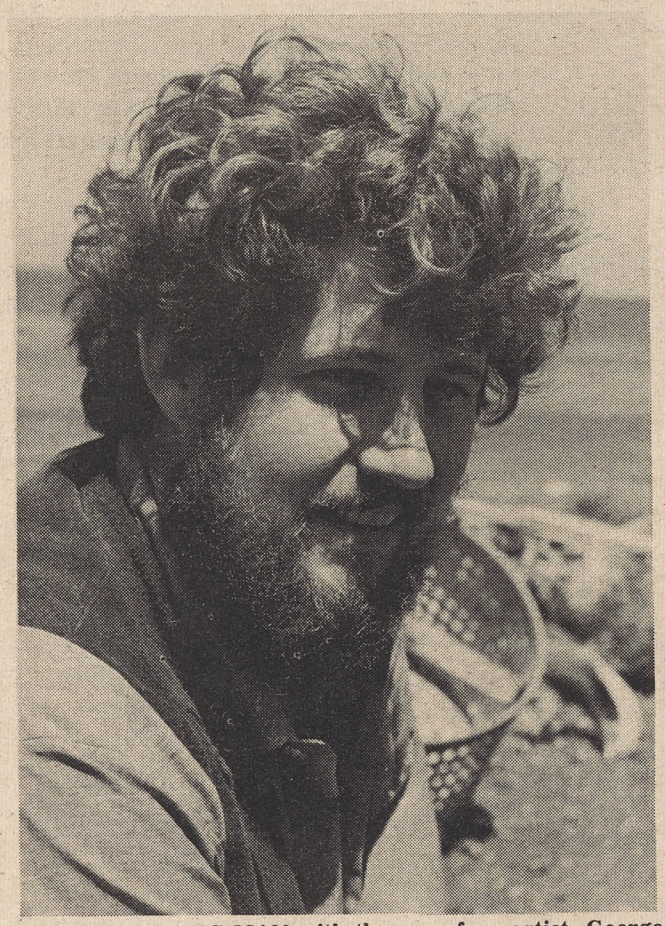
Buck and his helpers turn out 10 tables or more a week. He won't reveal the secret of the special finish he puts on the wood, but assures buyers that his tables are guaranteed not to fall apart or crack.

Some of his tables are being sold in Boston and Washington, D.C., while locally they can be seen at Highlands Inn, Natures Jewel Box in Carmel, and the Del Monte Hyatt House.

He obviously enjoys what he's doing and sums it up this way:

"I'm working for myself. I'm my own boss. I like to be out of doors. I meet nice people and there's a lot of satisfaction to what we do. It's fun. I just dig it."

A RUSTED ANCHOR marks the spot on Cannery Row where George Buck has his one-of-a-kind "studio" -- a lot opening onto Monterey Bay where he slices giant hunks of driftwood into exquisite decorator tables of all sizes, heights and shapes. The wood is cut and sanded here, then finished in Buck's home in Monterey.



A BURLY YOUNG MAN with the eye of an artist, George Buck is fast building a national reputation for his driftwood masterpieces.

Average pay now $11,790:

Teachers ask 11% pay hike

Teachers of the Carmel Unified School District are asking for- in effect - an 11 percent raise. Because this increase should be covered by the district's anticipated tax returns for 1971-72, there would be no increase in the present rate of $2.722.

As the finance committee of the Certified (teachers') Employees Council presented it to the board of education at its meeting last week:

— The teachers want a six percent salary adjustment "to compensate the staff for the increased cost-of-living during this past year."

— Plus, "The committee also recommends a salary raise of five percent to the staff for the increasing disparity between teachers' salaries and salaries in other professional and in non-professional fields."

The 11 percent increase for the teachers would decrease the reserve - at $22,000 per each percent - by $242,000. But, because the district would not allow a cost-of-living increase to the teachers without doing the same for other district employees, there would be an additional cost of $36,000.

The requests could be met, Walter E. Hinton, district business manager, said, "... at the cost of reducing the reserves."

In the preliminary 1971-72 fiscal budget of $4,139,068, teachers' salaries amount to $1,963,743.

"Have you tried to compare our salary schedule with the average salary schedules in the state?" Trustee Steven Sassoon asked Lewis DeStefano, chairman of the finance committee.

"I'd say at this point, and over the last two or three years, we are very competitive," DiStefano said.

Trustee Hilton Bialek added that Carmel teachers are in the upper 25 percent in the state in average salaries.

However, Superintendent Harris A. Taylor pointed out that "60 percent of our teachers have been with the district 10 years or more" while some district might have only 10 percent of their teachers stay that long. So, he said, while some districts have higher pay schedules their salary expenditure might not be as great as Carmel's because their teachers do not remain long enough to earn higher salaries.

"That a large number of our teachers elect to stay is a tribute to the community a tribute to the school district," Taylor quipped. "But it is also expensive."

Sassoon said that before the board could take any action on the salary requests it would have to get further information on the status of a bill in the state legislature which would impose a stawide school tax. The passage of the tax, Business Manager Walter E. Hinton reported, would cost the district a loss of $916,000.

In the past, Bialek said, the board and teachers have generally been able "to come to some agreeable solution, and I hope we can do it this year."

According to the finance committee's report, the six percent cost-of-living increase represents an average loss of $705 per teacher.

In listing "disparity" between teachers' salaries and salaries in other professional and non-professional fields, some of the examples pointed out by the report were:

— "Cash raises paid in manufacturing in 1970 averaged 8.8 percent.

— "Wage rates of construction workers rose 9.4 percent in 1969, 11.9 in 1970; negotiated contracts so far in 1971 are averaging 13 percent.

— "Federal employees are receiving a raise of six percent, their third salary increase in the past 18 months.

— "The U.S. Labor Department estimates 5.3 million workers will share in raises averaging 7.8 percent in 1971."

The report also compared average starting salaries in industry with the average starting salary of district teachers of $7,659; eingineering, $10,476; accounting, $10,080; sales-marketing, $8,184; production management, $9,048; chemistry, $9,708; physics, $10,080; mathematics-statistics, $9,468; economics-finance, $8,880; other fields, $9,263. The average is $9,263.

Dan Yurkovich, assistant to the superintendent, told the board that the average teacher salary in the district is presently $11,790.

DR. JONES

Dr. Hardin B. Jones to speak here next week

Professor Hardin B. Jones of the University of California will speak at Carmel Middle School and Carmel High School next Thursday, April 29, during a three-day visit to the Monterey Peninsula.

Dr. Jones, professor of medical physics and physiology, is assistant director of the University's Donner Laboratory. His main purpose in coming to this area is to discuss drug usage and the physiological problems arising from drug abuse.

In this connection, he will give a public lecture on "What Parents Should Know About Drugs" in Lecture-Forum 103 at Monterey Peninsula College next Wednesday, April 28, at 8 p.m.

He will speak at Middle School from 9:10 to 10 a.m. the next day, and then speak twice in Brey Hall later that morning, from 10:15 to 11 a.m., and from 11:10 a.m. to 11:45 a.m.

Dr. Jones' visit stems, in part, from a request by Robert Oross of Carmel Valley to the Carmel School Board asking that Dr. Jones be invited to speak and present a somewhat different approach to the drug problem than that followed by John Frykman, the district's community counselor. Oross was assured that if Dr. Jones could come, the school administration would arrange time for him to lecture to students.

Board adopts school calendars for two years

The Carmel Unified School District Board of Education broke precedent at last week's meeting when it adopted school calendars for not one but the next two school years.

The 1971-72 school calendar was adopted unanimously, the 1972-73 calendar by a three-to-two vote with Trustees Steven Sassoon and James Miller voting "no."

Sassoon explained his "no" vote, stating that there might be a new school board in July which would not like the 1972-73 calendar.

Board President Richard Wilsdon said that the administration and teaching staff simply wanted an idea of their schedules in that school year and that the calendar would "not be binding" on a new board.

Superintendent Harris A. Taylor said that besides having the advantage of eliminating having to adopt a calendar each year, adopting two schedules assists the teachers who "like a consistent format." He said they "want something fairly predictable" rather than the year-to-year scheduling.

The 1971-72 school year will have 197 teaching days, school opening Sept. 13 and closing June 16; 1972-73 will have 178 days, opening Sept. 11 and closing June 15.

The calendars follow a format designed to avoid split weeks at the beginning of school years caused by the closeness of Labor Day and Admissions Day in early September. This has been a problem on past district schedules and has resulted in poor attendance.

City objects to area planning commission vote on Odello plan

Carmel city officials call "misleading" the recent Area Planning Commission vote which endorsed rezoning to accommodate the development of the Odello artichoke ranch.

They say that a 5-4 vote by the Monterey Peninsula Area Planning Commission taken last month, and interpreted as supporting the Odello rezoning, should actually read as a 3-3 tie.

The tie "...in effect means no recommendation on the matter," claims Carmel City Councilman Eben Whittlesey, council representative to the commission.

Whittlesey and Carmel's second representative to the commission, Mrss. Florence Josselyn, honorary life member of the city's planning commission, voted against the rezoning.

They were joined by Alice Cantu of Seaside and commission chairman Robert B. Franco, of Del Rey Oaks.

The five "ayes" were cast by Earl Grafton of Pacific Grove, who introduced the motion, Philip Anastasia of Monterey, Phil Calabrese and Robert E. McDonald II of Sand City and Robert C. Yundt of Pacific Grove.

County Planning Commission representative, Edward P. Marcucci, abstained from voting.

Whittlesey points out that the commission's plan of organization provides for voting by jurisdiction, not by individuals.

He maintains the correct vote is three cities for the rezoning—Pacific Grove, Sand City and Monterey—and three opposed—Seaside, Del Rey Oaks and Carmel.

Whittlesey aired his protest following the vote in a letter to Edward Demars, planning director of the Monterey County Planning Commission. The county commission and board of supervisors are recipients of the area commission's recommendations, which have only advisory status.

"While all jurisdictions who are members of the area planning commission were present, it should be borne out that the most affected jurisdictions are the city of Carmel and the county," the letter states. "The city of Carmel went on record to express the city planning commission's opposition to the Odello rezoning and plan concept (Planning Commission Resolution No. 710). The city council has also expressed its open opposition to the proposed rezoning and plan concept in its communication signed by each of the city's councilmen and directed to the Monterey County Planning Commission (March 26, 1971)."

The city council last week unanimously endorsed Whittlesey's letter and went on record requesting the area commissioners "...to declare the subject vote void at your next meeting and that you then reconsider the matter."

City Administrator Hugh Bayless, who drafted the council's letter, called the area commission's action "...a count of noses instead of votes."

Whittlesey said Wednesday he had received no reaction to his letter.

"I'm frankly not expecting much in the way of action," he said. "I think we made our point."

The Carmel lawyer said he will probably ask for a correction of the minutes when the area commission next meets.

He expects the commission to vote on the rezoning again before the Odello controversy reaches a head.

Whittlesey's contention of a tie vote rests on Paragraph 8 of the area commission's plan of organization:

"For the purpose of conducting official business a quorum at any meeting shall exist when there is one or more representatives present from a majority of the member jurisdictions. Action at any meeting shall be by a majority vote of the jurisdictions present except that for the adoption of the general plan or a part thereof or amendment thereto not less than a two-thirds vote of all member jurisdictions shall be required."

PREPARATION ADVISED FOR SPRING TURKEY HUNT SATURDAY

Sportsmen planning to try their luck in the spring turkey hunt in Monterey and San Luis Obispo Counties were advised by the Department of Fish and Game that a little preparation and planning will go a long way to make their efforts more successful.

The spring season opens Saturday and runs through May 2. The limit is one male gobbler for the season.

Nearly all of the best turkey habitat in Monterey and San Luis Obispo Counties lies on private property, and hunters must have permission of the landowner to shoot on these lands.

Past surveys made by the Department show that hunters who wait until the last minute almost always have a great deal of difficulty finding a place to shoot.

The DFG advises hunters who are interested in trying for a turkey to take the time to contact the landowners personally and attempt to get his permission to shoot on his lands.

LAFCO to consider Regional Park plan

A way to save scenic lands through public purchase

A proposal to establish a Monterey Peninsula Regional Park and Open Space District will have its first public hearing before the Local Agency Formation Committee next Tuesday at 8 p.m. The meeting will be held in the Board of Supervisors' chambers in the Courthouse in Salinas.

The plan is being sponsored by the Ventana Chapter of the Sierra Club, the Audubon Society, the League of Women Voters and Nature Conservancy.

Attorney Sean Flavin will present the proposal, which also has the official endorsement of architect Will Shaw, Gen. Frank Hill, Bill Reese, Alan Baldridge, Charles Kramer and Helend Reed.

The proposed district would encompass the present Monterey Peninsula College District (see map) and would be for the express purpose of acquiring and holding scenic lands for open space and possible recreational uses.

Land acquisition would be financed by a 10 cent tax within the district, which would yield approximately $273,000 a year. This would amount to a tax of less than $8 a year on a $30,000 house.

If LAFCO approves the proposal on Tuesday, sponsors will then need to get the signatures of 5,000 registered voters so the measure can be put on the ballot in November.

All this would come too late to be of help in saving the Odello fields from development, but, in the words of Flavin, "it could help prevent future Odellos."

This is the plan which will be considered by LAFCO:

MONTEREY PENINSULA REGIONAL PARK AND OPEN SPACE DISTRICT

"One of the prime natural assets of the Monterey Peninsula region is its open-space. These hills, mountains, pastures, forests, and beaches provide a spectacular scenic backdrop to our communities and serve as a "greenbelt" and a potential source of recreation in a natural, unspoiled setting.

This unique heritage which gives the Peninsula its close-to-nature character is threatened. The Peninsula continues to attract new residents from all over the country. The influx of residents and tourists has produced pressure to develop these open spaces, as witness the Odello and Monterey Beach proposals. Budgetary pressures on the county and our cities have precluded, with few exceptions, any major open-space acquisitions.

Further, there is no existing governmental agency which is in a position to act as a Peninsula-wide voice and vehicle in scenic land conservation. The county government must necessarily look to the broad and diverse needs of the entire county, and the cities have neither the resources nor the power to protect our scenic land resources, most of which lie in unincorporated territory.

In short there is no existing governmental agency with adequate resources, determination or singularity of purpose to do the job.

If the job is not undertaken promptly, this irreplaceable natural resource will be lost to all our citizens and future generations as well. The Monterey Peninsula will lose its unique character. Accordingly, the undersigned sponsors respectfully urge the Local Agency Formation Commission to grant approval for the formation of the regional park district, more particularly described below, under the provisions of Section 5500 and following of the Public Resources Code of the State of California.

PURPOSES

The primary purpose of the Monterey Peninsula Regional Park and Open-Space District will be to acquire scenic lands and hold them for open space and recreational uses. It is anticipated that in the early years of the district's existence it will devote most if not all of its resources to the planning for, and the acquisition of, land and scenic easements by purchase and gift. In subsequent years, the District may develop certain parcels of land for such recreational use as its Board of Directors may determine.

Additional purposes will be to act as a peninsula-wide voice and arm in open-space conservation and an instrumentality through which to pursue state and federal assistance in land conservation.

CITIES AFFECTED BY DISTRICT

The following cities have territory within the proposed boundaries of the district:

Seaside — Sand City
Monterey — Pacific Grove
Del Rey Oaks — Carmel

BOUNDARIES

The proposed boundaries of the district are described in Exhibit "B". A map showing the boundaries of the district is attached as Exhibit "C". The boundaries coincide with the existing boundaries of the Monterey Peninsula College District and were chosen because they include virtually all of the areas of scenic beauty in the Monterey Peninsula area and also the communities that derive immediate benefit from that scenic beauty.

EFFECT OF PROPOSAL

The creation of the district will have a beneficial effect on the social and economic interests of the area included in it. The major economic and esthetic asset of the area is its scenic beauty. Without it, the area will gradually be degraded. The cost of land acquisitions will be many times repaid through maintenance of values in adjoining lands. Land acquisitions will also provide a land bank for future recreational uses.

FINANCES

The Regional Park District Act (Public Resources Code Section 5500 et. seq.) authorizes a regional park district to levy a 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation property tax. (This rate was made permanent at the last session of the Legislature at the request of the East Bay Regional Park District, the only entity presently functioning under the act.) The voters in the district may at any time, however, by majority vote, authorize a tax rate in excess of 10 cents.

In addition, the act allows the district, by unanimous vote of its Board of Directors, to borrow up to 5 percent of the assessed valuation of the district on notes not to exceed five years and 6 percent interest.

The district is also authorized to borrow money to acquire land in a sum not to exceed its anticipated tax revenue for two years. Such borrowing can be for a period of up to ten years and may carry an interest rate not in excess of 6½ percent. Approval of four-fifths of the directors of the district is required for such borrowing.

The assessed value of the proposed district, on the basis of the 1970-1971 assessment roll, is $273,159,785. Given these figures, and the applicable law, the proposed district will have adequate revenues to carry on its purposes.

Although these revenues will not enable it to immediately purchase all lands it may wish to purchase, they will permit important first steps toward this goal which, and may, well serve as a catalyst to generate purchases by other governmental entities and encourage donation of lands by public-spirited citizens and organizations.

RESPONSIBILITY TO THE ELECTORATE

The Regional Park District Act requires that the directors of the district be directly elected from wards within the district. That is, voters within a given ward would select only that director who resides in their own ward. The act calls for either five or seven directors as determined by the Board of Supervisors.

RELATIONSHIP WITH EXISTING AGENCIES

The proposed district would in no way conflict with any existing agency. As noted above, the prime purpose of the district in its early years would be to plan for and acquire open-space lands. These acquisitions would be coordinated with the plans of other concerned governmental entities.

Some time in the future the Board of Directors of the district may choose to develop some of the property acquired for recreational use; however, it is unlikely that such recreational use would in any way conflict with the more intensive parks traditionally developed and administered by the county and city parks departments.

It is anticipated that the district would explore the possibility of the county or appropriate city parks departments administering the acquired lands on a mutually agreeable basis.

The Regional Park District Act specifically forbids the district from acquiring or in any way interfering with any property owned by a municipality or county without the consent of that body.

PROCEDURES

The Regional Park District Act requires that (after LAFCO approval) a petition with 5,000 signatures of registered voters residing within the district be obtained.

That petition is then submitted to the county registrar of voters.

The proposal would then be referred to the County Board of Supervisors.

If the board approves the formation of the district, it would also determine the boundaries and number of wards into which the district would be divided for the purpose of electing directors. Once the board has approved, the matter would be referred to the voters for the approval and, concurrently, for the election of directors.

CONCLUSION

The sponsors believe that the creation of a regional park district is in the public interest and respectfully request the Local Agency Formation Commission to approve its formation."

A MONTEREY PENINSULA REGIONAL PARK and Open Space District may be established along the same lines as the Monterey Peninsula College District, extending from Marina on the north to a point below Anderson Landing on the coast south of Big Sur, and including most of the upper Carmel Valley. If adopted by the Local Agency Formation Committee next Tuesday, and eventually approved by voters, residents within this area would pay a nominal 10 cent tax which would be used to purchase particularly scenic pieces of land for open space or recreation purposes. A similar district now exists in the East Bay, and efforts are underway to establish another one in parts of San Mateo and Santa Clara counties.

Summer school extension desirable, but money is short

'The roles should be reversed,'' Carmel Unified School District Superintendent Harris A. Taylor told the board of education last week. ''I should be presenting programs to you and you should be telling me we don't have the money for them.''

The topic was the district's limited summer school program and board members were recommending additions to it while Taylor reminded them the district didn't have sufficient finances itself to expand and the state's financial assistance (17 cents per instructional hour per student) did not provide many possibilities.

At a previous recommendation of the board, a summer reading program for kindergarten and first grade students had already been expanded to include second and third graders. At last week's meeting Trustee James Miller suggested the administration look into the possibility of establishing vocational training courses ''for kids who can't get employment in the summertime'' because of lack of sufficient skills.

Trustee Hilton Bialek said that a problem on the Monterey Peninsula is that there aren't many summertime jobs available for youths, even those with skills.

He said students might be interested in summer courses in the fine arts, such as pottery, while Trustee Rev. James Brock suggested a course whereby students could learn what careers are opening up and which are becoming outmoded. He said the course could also direct students toward vocational training in skills in which they have an aptitude.

The suggestions will be looked into by the administration.

With $625 in state aid, it is currently estimated that the summer school program, which at present also includes an instrumental music program for fourth graders through high school students and transportation for high school students wishing to take courses at Pacific Grove and Monterey high schools, will cost the district $4,825.

In other action, the board renewed for an agreement for audio-visual services with the County Office of Education for next school year. The cost to the district will be $6,371.

Also approved were hearing testing services with the County Superintendent of Schools for next school year. The program will cost the district $2,500.

By JUDITH A. EISNER

"Most men live too long; but all dogs die too soon," wrote Albert Payson Terhune some 50 years ago.

When you consider that the average dog's lifespan is somewhere between 10 and 12 years, the second part of Terhune's statement rings true.

Although a dog is technically considered a puppy by the American Kennel Club until he is one year old, many large breeds do not reach their full growth until they are two years old or older. Usually, some time after a dog has achieved physical maturity, he begins to develop mental maturity - a calmness and dependability of temperament that differs from puppyhood.

Between two and six years of age, most dogs are at their physical prime. These are the years of full muscle power when a dog can work its hardest and reproduce itself with least complication.

Beyond six years of age, most dogs begin to grow old. This does not mean that at their sixth birthday dogs suddenly become enfeebled or infirm. In fact, true working dogs who serve on police departments or as guides for the blind often continue to work until they are 10 years old. It simply means that past six years, the inexorable slowing-down process that is aging has begun.

Because dogs are physiologically so much like humans, their aging process is similar to ours.

Aging brings to the dog a general loss of muscle tone, a gradual weakening of the organs, lowered resistance to disease and infection and impairment of the senses.

Like senior citizens of the human variety, old dogs become more and more creatures of habit who resent upset and disruption.

Dogs who have been well cared for through their youth generally continue to enjoy life through old age, but at a slower pace. It is in old age that one reaps the rewards of good care during youth, for the dog with a strong, healthy constitution and a lifetime of sound care stands a better chance of living to enjoy his golden years.

When your dog passes his sixth birthday, you don't have to learn a new routine of caring for him. In fact, he'll appreciate as little change in his routine as possible.

The older dog who is less active may require less food. Unless a specific ailment is diagnosed that requires a different diet, you should not change the dog's food except to gradually cut down the quantity if necessary. Life will be easier for your old dog if you see to it that he is kept on the lean side, so as not to overburden aging muscles and organs.

You should be sure to check your old dog's mouth and teeth regularly -- perhaps once a month. Dogs' teeth wear depending on the way they've been used. The dog who gnawed at stones and bones all his life will have teeth more worn than the dog who did not.

Any broken or unsound teeth should be removed by a veterinarian. Accumulations of calculus (tartar) should be professionally cleaned to prevent gum irritation and future loss of teeth.

If necessary, you will have toprovide a softer diet for the dog whose teeth are no longer up to hard, dry kibble.

Kidney problems beset as high as 80 percent of dogs over eight years of age. Generally, chronic kidney ailments are indicated by a markedly increased thirst and frequency of urination.

The simple kind of nephritis or kidney malfunction requires no treatment beyond allowing the dog to drink as much as he wishes and avoiding a salty, spicy diet.

The more serious kind of nephritis is indicated by weight loss, arching of the back, stiff gait, depression and vomiting. It needs prompt attention by a veterinarian, who can prescribe medication and a diet designed to assist failing kidneys.

As the owner of an aging dog, you sometimes will be called upon to exercise common sense for the dog who refuses to quit. If your dog has led an active life, he may not admit that he's no longer as young as he used to be.

You may have to gently restrain your older dog from too-wild exercise that he could once tolerate. Galloping along beside a bicycle or horse for five miles in the summer heat is not proper exercise for the older dog. And he should be restrained from over-indulging in any strenuous exercise in extremely hot, cold or wet weather.

This does not mean that he does not need regular exercise. He most certainly does to maintain his muscle tone, pep up his appetite and keep his organs functioning. But a good walk and a short romp with a ball should now be adequate.

Beyond the age of ten, loss of hearing and eyesight often occur. Dogs seem to adapt very well to these handicaps, but they do need to be protected from their consequences. A deaf dog cannot hear a car coming down the driveway; and a blind dog needs to be safeguarded from potentially serious falls.

Any older dog should be watched carefully for any sort of growth. These occur most frequently in aging unspayed bitches as small lumps between the rear breasts. Any growth should be checked immediately by your veterinarian and treated as he sees fit.

Above all, the older dog should be treated with gentleness, understanding, kindness and love. Dogs grow increasingly sensitive about their infirmities, almost as if they are sorry to burden you with them.

Make it more of a point than ever to include your old dog in family doings, to take the time to go for a walk with him, to sit down and pet him for a few extra minutes. To paraphrase Terhune again, perhaps someday people will be kinder to you when you are old because of the extra attention you gave to your aging dog.

Huge increase in net earnings by Palo-Alto Salinas Savings

A 41.6 percent increase in net earnings for the first quarter of 1971 has been announced by Firmin A Gryp, president of Palo Alto-Salinas Savings and Loan Association. Earnings for the three month period were $1,136,654 compared to $801,570 for the comparable period in 1970. Per share earnings were 51 cents compared to 36 cents.

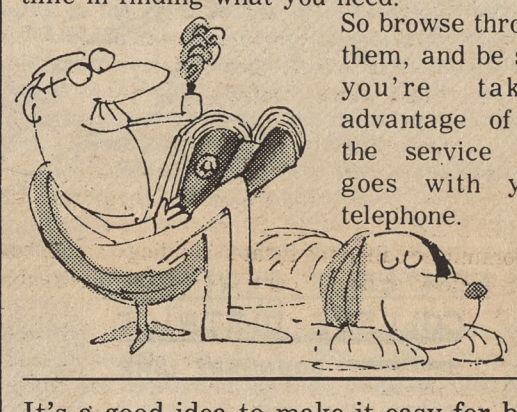
A steadily increasing flow of savings provided substantial funds for lending purposes, according to Gryp, which accounted in large measure for the earnings increase.

Savings grew substantially ... a sizeable $23,821,331 during the first quarter, bringing the portfolio to $362,557,680, while loans made during the period totaled $33,500,000 increasing the total loan portfolio to $407,055,054. Total resources of the association reached $466,361,713 on March 31, 1971 compared to $387,344,950 on the same date in 1970. This was an increase of $79,016,763 or 20.4 percent for the twelve month period.

The Palo Alto based firm announced last week that application had been filed with the State Department of Savings and Loans for approval of its merger with Carmel Savings. Agreement in principle to merge the two associations had been reached in January. Stockholder approval and governmental approval is now required. June 3, 1971 has been set for the hearing before the state department of savings and loans and a decision is expected within the next three to six months.

THE PHONE BOOTH

If you're someone who likes to browse through books, there's one book I recommend that's really worthwhile. It's the Monterey Co. telephone directory, especially the front pages. They're full of information about Area Codes, emergency numbers and how to make different types of calls — plus many other useful facts. There's even an index to save you time in finding what you need.



So browse through them, and be sure you're taking advantage of all the service that goes with your telephone.

It's a good idea to make it easy for business associates and friends to call you by including your Area Code and telephone number on your stationery and business cards. With today's low-cost, fast long distance service, more and more people are answering their correspondence with a convenient two way phone call.

I hope you'll be listening in for radio broadcasts of the San Francisco Giants baseball games. Pacific Telephone is one of the sponsors this season, and sportscasters Lon Simmons and Bill Thompson will be giving you tips on how to get the most out of your telephone service.

New Village shopping center renamed 'Valley Ford'

... and proposed service station removed from plans

BY PAT GRIFFITH

A plan for a $1 million commercial development on the corner of Ford Road and Carmel Valley Road made its official debut before the Monterey County Planning Commission last week. The plan is built around a twin movie theater which will extend for 215 feet along the northern edge of the property, adjacent to the Community Center.

After discussing both the general site plan and drawings for the theater, the commission continued further consideration to May 12 to allow architect Olof Dahlstrand time to prepare more detailed plans.

Developer Robert Bolman of Pebble Beach told the Outlook later that Dahlstrand will revise the master plan shown in last week's paper in one significant respect. The service station marked in a block for the intersection of Ford Road and Carmel Valley Road will be eliminated, he said, and replaced by a building.

Bolman also said that the development, which he prefers to call a "group of commercial buildings" rather than a "shopping center", will have a new name -- "Valley Ford." It was presented at last week's hearing as "Valley Plaza."

Bolman will also go before the Upper Valley Advisory Committee at 8 a.m. Friday to request a variance for the sign for the movie theater. He is requesting a sign equal in size to the one in front of the Mid-Valley Cinema, which measures 6 by 12 feet, so that it can be seen and read by motorists driving along Carmel Valley Road.

Doyt Early, chairman of the Upper Valley Advisory Committee, was the only Carmel Valley resident in the audience for Dahlstrand's presentation to the Planning Commission. The lack of a crowd, almost unprecedented for a significant Carmel Valley proposal, was probably due to the fact that almost nobody had heard of the application until they received last week's Outlook sometime Wednesday afternoon.

ADVISORY BOARD'S POSITION

Early was on hand to give the advisory group's recommendation that the site plan and zoning permit for the theater be denied.

The committee called the theater building "stark, boxlike, obsolete factory style ... contrary to the desireable atmosphere of Carmel Valley."

The committee was also critical because no landscape plan had been submitted with the master plan, and said that pedestrian walkways should be included in the design.

Dahlstrand said that he had mistakenly thought that the master plan for the development had already been approved, and would have a properly detailed set of plans ready for the advisory committee to consider before the May 12 hearing.

In explaining the design of the theater, which will include two auditoriums seating 294 patrons each, opening off a common lobby, Dahlstrand said that the appearance of the front will be softened by temporary landscaping until future buildings block the plain stucco walls.

Road Commissioner Bruce McClain had several recommendations regarding the center. He first reminded the commissioners that if the plan is approved, it will forever eliminate the possibility of making Carmel Valley Road a dual road in the Village area by having one strip cut through Bolman's property and connect with Del Fino Place.

"You should remember you're cutting out an option by going ahead on this," McClain said. "That leaves Carmel Valley Road itself as a future traffic carrier, unless you want to exercise your option of going through the airport, and you know what THAT means."

McClain recommended that the commercial development be limited to one entranceway on Carmel Valley Road and two on Ford Road.

He also urged that Bolman be required to annex his property to the drainage district, a recommendation that drew mild protest from Bolman's attorney, Brian Finegan. Finegan said that Bolman wouldn't object to being part of a drainage district if neighboring property owners were also required to join, but that it would be "unfair and onerous" for him to be annexed when his property is not contiguous to the district.

PROBLEM OF ROAD

Finegan also argued against another of McClain's recommendations, that Bolman dedicate a 20 foot strip fronting Carmel Valley Road to the County in case the road is widened in the future.

In assessing the plan presented, commissioner Keith Evans of Carmel said "basically it's a reasonable proposal. But I think that more public information is desireable."

Evans said he agreed with McClain's recommendations on drainage and road dedication.

Commissioner Leon Stutzman concurred that Bolman's property should be annexed to the drainage district, but said he would favor a 10 foot road dedication as "more equitable."

Commissioner Vaughn Parsons disagreed on setting aside a strip for future road widening.

"I don't think in my lifetime or in my children's lifetime the time will come when residents of the Village will allow even three lanes," he commented. "I think what you see is all you're going to get."

The undeveloped property is located in a PCD zoning district, which means Planned Commercial with design control. Under the provisions of this ordinance, a general site plan must be approved by the Planning Commission and the Board of Supervisors. In addition, a zoning permit is required for each and every unit of the development as it is planned. Applications for zoning permits, which include design approval, go to the Upper Valley Advisory Committee for review and then to the Planning Commission for final approval.

Another horse found shot in Carmel Valley

For the second time in three weeks, a horse has been found shot in Carmel Valley.

This time the victim was killed a one-month-old buckskin colt belonging to the Carmel Ranch Co. Manager Sam Jurey discovered the colt's body early last week on grazing land owned by the company, 12 miles east of Carmel Valley Village.

The little colt had been shot in the stomach, the left rear leg and the right front leg. It had been valued at $800, because it was eventually going to be used for breeding stock.

The site of the shooting is near the Tularcitos Ranch, where two horses were discovered shot on March 28. Neither horse was killed, but one, a mare, has lost one eye and can never be ridden again. She will be kept as a brood mare. The second horse, "Sleepy," is still being treated for a neck wound, but is expected to recover.

No suspects have been found in either case. The SPCA has posted signs and offered a small reward for information leading to the arrest of those responsible.

THIS PRELIMINARY SUBDIVISION MAP for Carmel Knolls No. 4 was received by the Monterey County Planning Commission last week. This map shows an area of 10.2 acres divided into 26 building lots. Nineteen of the lots would be approximately 10,000 square feet, and seven would be 20,000 square feet or larger. This is similar to the layout of Carmel Knolls sections No. 1, No. 2 and No. 3. At the present this property is zoned for a minimum one acre building site. Monterey Peninsula Associates, owners of the property, plans to file an application for rezoning "right away." The planning Commission will not act on the subdivision map until the application for rezoning is considered.

BIRDS OF A FEATHER, in this case members of the Santa Clara Airmans' Association, flocked to Carmel Valley airport Sunday for their traditional once-a-year luncheon at the Plaza Linda. The first plane landed about noon, catching Al and Connie Hood by complete surprise; and in the next hour and a half 21 more light planes flew in. Many residents living near the airport offered to drive the visitors to the restaurant. The planes took off in a staggered schedule, and by 4 p.m. they were all gone, taking about 100 persons, including many children, with them.

Rev. Edward H. Stady to speak at Baptist Church

Rev. Edward H. Stady will speak at the First Baptist Church on Sunday, at both services, 11:00 a.m. and 6:00 p.m.

Mr. Stady is serving as pastor of the North Syracuse Baptist Church in North Syracuse, N.Y. This church, with two Sunday morning worship services, a Sunday School of over 700, a Sunday evening service, and two regular Sunday broadcasts, is a recognized lighthouse for evangelistic Christianity throughout Central New York State.

Prior to coming to North Syracuse, Mr. Stady served as pastor of Quidnessett Baptist Church in North Kingstown, R.I. He is widely known as a leader in Christian Education and a dynamic Biblical preacher. He is heard each year in several Bible conferences and participates in many area Sunday School conventions as well as the National Sunday School Convention as a workshop leader.

Gwenn Graham Concours set for May 29

Invitations to the Gwenn Graham Concours will be in the mail starting April 19.

This prestigious automobile showing, named in memory of its founder 21 years ago, will be held on the lawn in front of Del Monte Lodge, Pebble Beach, on Saturday, May 29.

The day-long event is scheduled from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. when the overall winner is announced.

The Community Hospital Auxiliary of the Monterey Peninsula which benefits from the sale of tickets and posters, has accepted a 1926 Peugeot to be given the lucky ticket holder. This magnificent car has been donated by Mrs. L.D. Howard, Jr. of Pebble Beach.

Tickets for the May 29 event—which include the gate fee into Del Monte Forest—are $2.50 and can be purchased in advance by writing to: Gwenn Graham Concours Tickets, Box HH, Carmel, Calif. 93921.

There will be awards in 14 separate classes and the Gwenn Graham Trophy will go to the most elegant car in the show. The Lucius Beebe Memorial Trophy is presented to the best Rolly-Royce on the lawn.

Tularcitos students get a preview of Sunday's Pops Concert

Budding musicians at Tularcitos School formed an enchanted -- and enchanting -- audience Monday morning when three members of the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra demonstrated and performed their gleaming instruments.

The orchestra members, Carol and Jay Klein and Harold Nonneman, gave up a morning to introduce children to adult-sized instruments not found in the Tularcitos orchestra.

Their presence also served as a reminder of Sunday's annual Pops Concert at the Monterey County Fairgrounds. This popular event, planned around a family "Sunday in the park" theme, includes surprises and special entertainment for the children. Families are encouraged to arrive when the gates open at noon and enjoy a leisurely picnic on the grass before the concert starts at 2 p.m.

The music at the Pops Concert is planned with ear-appeal for young and old alike, and as these pictures clearly show, kids really go for good music performed "live."

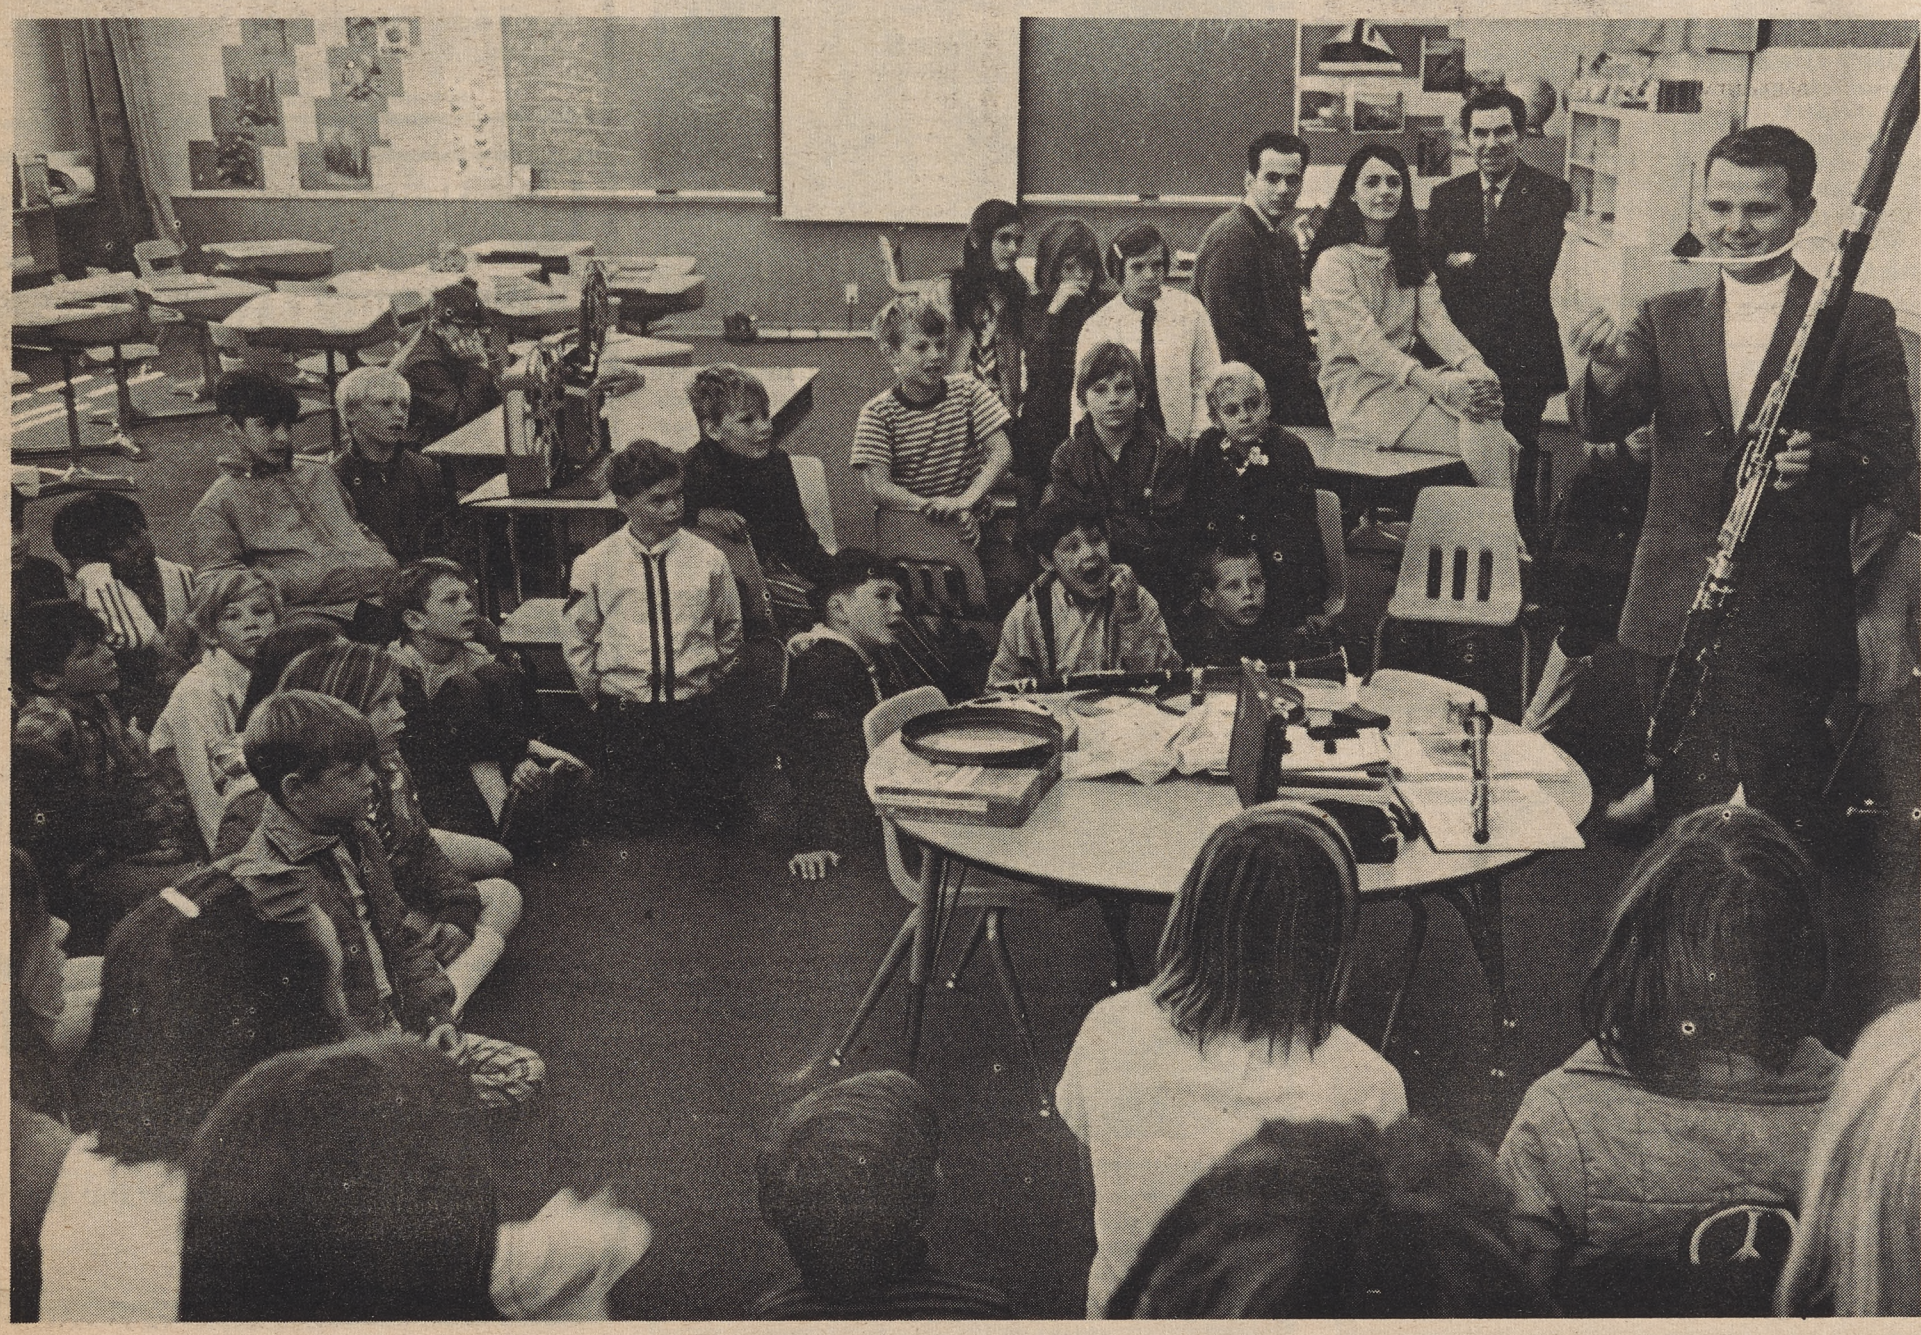
DARCEE JOHNSON can actually "feel" the music as Harold Nonneman plays his oboe. Lori Azcarate is the happy listener in the background.

THIS QUINTET of Tularcitos students doesn't need any course in "music appreciation." They have it already, as they sit absorbed by the music of visiting performers from the Monterey County Symphony. From left to right are Ronnie Gayman, Stacie McFaddin, Darcee Johnson, John Littlewood and Steve Rammel.

PRETTY CAROL KLEIN, who performs with the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra, enthralls an audience of young listeners at Tularcitos School.

THREE MONTEREY SYMPHONY MEMBERS visited Tularcitos School Monday to demonstrate various instruments and to encourage youngsters to bring their families to Sunday's annual Pops Concert at the Monterey Fairgrounds. Here Harold Nonneman puts his oboe together. Music teacher John Farr is standing on the left behind Nonneman, with two other symphony players, Jay and Carol Klein.



TV movie scene shot in Carmel Valley Village

Don't be surprised if one night next fall you flip your TV dial on a Monday evening and find yourself watching Big Time Drama at Bill Hall's Chevron Station in Carmel Valley Village.

Unlikely though it seems, that is exactly where Universal Studios had a production crew Friday afternoon to film a segment of a forthcoming TV movie entitled "The Harness," which is a modern adaptation of John Steinbeck's story, "The Long Valley."

The filming attracted quite a crowd, possibly because actress Julie Sommars and actor Lorne Greene were there too.

Most of the filming was done in the Salinas Valley, with brief segments also done at Rancho San Carlos and the Holt Ranch. The sequence at the Valley Chevron finished the on-location shooting. A spokesman for the film company said the movie will appear on NBC "Monday Night at the Movies" in about six to eight months.

EMERGENCY CALLS

The Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Department answered two calls for medical assistance last week. On Saturday at 1:49 p.m., Mrs. Sam Brandt of 43 Flight Road was taken to Community Hospital as a medical emergency. On Sunday at 1:06 p.m. the department's ambulance was called to the scene of a motorcycle accident east of Camp Stefani. Carolyn Willart, of Mission Fields, Carmel, suffered a broken leg in the accident and was taken to Community Hospital.

There were no fire calls last week.

"THE FIRST YEAR WE'RE MARRIED we'll have one little kid ..." Mr. Snow (Bob Beckstrom) begins outlaying his plans for eight children and large fishing fleet to his intended, Carrie Pipperidge (Carrie Shook), in Rodgers and Hammerstein's hit, CAROUSEL. Presented by Carmel High School with expressionistic scenery and costumes, the musical will feature many young performers familiar to Peninsula 'little theatre' audiences. Opening night proceeds will benefit a performing arts scholarship fund. The show will open April 29th to run three consecutive performances.

DRACULA HAUNTS THE CIRCLE STAGE ...

A fine performance of that old-time chiller

That mystery thriller from another epoch of the stage came to haunt Carmel's Community Theatre last week.

"Dracula" may or may not be the all-time top horror drama of American theatre, but it certainly symbolizes it.

As staged and directed by Michael Keller, it is fiendish in a brutal, yet subtle and tantalizing way,and builds up to what surely must be one of the most climactic moments ever conceived.

The cast is superb and believable - if one can believe in incredulous situations and vampires.

While the principals all do a fine job of acting, some of the lesser parts evoked the most spontaneous applause at opening night last Thursday.

Stephen Keener as R.M. Renfield, the demented patient of Dr. Seward (played by Bob Lotz), was truly brilliant in a most difficult part. If he isn't an outstanding candidate as best supporting actor of the season, no one is.

And Terrence Wadsworth, a newcomer to Circle Theatre casts, was nothing less than sensational as Butterworth, the insecure custodian of the manic Renfield.

Dr. Clancy Van Horn returns to stage center after an absence that was much too long, and is convincing as the fiendish and macabre Count Dracula.

Bob Lotz and Roy Baxter (as Abraham Van Helsing) are their usual professional selves, lending that fully proper degree of stage experience to their important roles.

Edie Donahoe comes up with one of her finest performances as Miss Wells, the servant who becomes involved in the fast developing crisis in the home of Dr. Seward, whose daughter Lucy (played by June Ballinger) falls prey to the Vampire.

June Ballinger must also be congratulated for a splendid performance in a demanding role. As should Richard Mannheim as Jonathan Harker, her fiance who becomes fully involved in the eerie events.

The background tapes help provide a thoroughly blood-curdling setting, as do the use of lights and other sound effects.

The Dracula story is already part of stage folklore, and its retelling would surely be redundant. Nevertheless it is a play fully worth seeing, if nothing else than to see the techniques developed so well a couple of generations ago. The hyperbole may border on comedy in many situations, but the chilling and grotesque nature of the drama keep it well in focus throughout.

Dracula's flowing and menacingly effective costume was created by Gale West. Ken Callewaert was Mr. Keller's production assistant, Don Porter was stage manager and Roy Baxter directed the lighting.

Dracula will play this month and next at the Circle Theatre. It is about as far out a contrast to the fabulous "Man of La Mancha" which it follows as one can imagine. Incidentally, it will be followed by "La Mancha", which Mr. Keller announced will make a return engagement starting on June 18. For many reasons it is probably the all-time great insofar as Circle Theatre productions go. GMD

Hostess named for the 1971 Salinas Rodeo

A winsome hazel-eyed brunette from Salinas High School with definite ideas about the problems of the times was last night named Hostess of the 1971 California Rodeo before the largest crowd ever to assemble in the Salinas High School auditorium for this opening event of the rodeo season.

She is Debbie Renebome, seventeen-year-old daughter of Mr and Mrs. Peter O. Renebome, 157 Lorimer street.

Debbie comes by the qualities which made her a winner naturally.

Her mother, Joyce, was a well-known exhibitor at horse shows throughout the state and served several terms as secretary of the Monterey County Horsemen's Association.

Her father was an R.C.A. cowboy for seven years competing in both bull riding and bareback bronc riding at the California Rodeo and elsewhere.

"I wasn't the greatest contestant in the world" he said, "but Joyce and I brought up a fine young daughter."

The five judges agreed by picking her from a field of six other candidates.

When Rodeo President Homer M. Hayward announced her as the winner Debbie did not react immediately. It wasn't until Tina Hansen, last year's Hostess, placed the banner which goes with the title across her shoulder, that she realized she had won.

The other candidates, all of whom will assist the Hostess as "Outdoor Girls", were Linda Alsberge, Charlotte Day, Candy Hoskins, Pattie McVay, Jenell Roberts and Kathy Splawn.

Will Carmel schools drop corporal punishment?

The question of corporal punishment in the Carmel Unified School District is still up in the air.

During board of education meetings the past few months, some trustees have worked on eliminating or modifying the board rule which gives school administrators the authority to administer corporal punishment to students "when deemed appropriate."

The newest version of the rule, presented at last week's board meeting, reads in part:

"When conditions warrant, a certified staff member may impose reasonable punishment upon students. However, corporal punishment is not to be utilized ..."

The new version also allows classified personnel, when undertaking supervisory duties, to "impost reasonable punishment when certified staff members are not present," and bus drivers to "take disciplinary action."

However, Trustee Steven Sassoon told the other board members he had received a few calls from staff members who were concerned that elimination of corporal punishment would "hurt discipline" in the district. Sassoon said the board should delay any action on the revision until it had got the opinion of the staff.

Superintendent Harris A. Taylor said he had also talked with teachers concerned with the revision and, while pointing out that it was the administrator's and not the teacher's right to administer corporal punishment that would be taken away, agreed with their feelings that they "should have a say in policies affecting them."

"I agree with Mr. Sassoon," Trustee James Miller said, "I'd like to hear some opinions from the teaching staff."

"If the board wishes, we'll ask the staff for a recommendation," Taylor said.

Romaine Hill a teacher at the high school and a member of the teachers' Certified Employees Council, said that the council approves of the revision.

"We feel this is extremely well stated," she said.

Taylor told the board that in recent years there has been much litigation in the state against school districts where a student has received corporal punishment, with the plaintiffs usually winning.

There are four variables, he said, on which judgments must be made in such cases: the gravity of the act that brought on the punishment, the size of the child, the size of the instrument used to administer the punishment and the severity of the punishment.

Board President Richard Wilsdon said, "I personally think it is going to take a very strong argument to convince me" that corporal punishment is ever justified.

Teacher complaints will be relayed to the Certified Employees Council and be discussed when the proposed revision is brought back to the board at a future meeting.

The board also considered revision of the board rule governing pupil transportation, particularly the transportation of students in privately owned vehicles.

In the event privately owned vehicles must be used, the revised rule stipulates that the car must carry a California Highway Patrol current inspection sticker and that the owner of the car must have a $50,000 -- $100,000 liability insurance policy, a $10,000 property damage policy and $1,000 medical coverage.

The rule also states that whenever possible the drivers of private vehicles should be employees of the school district, and if not, should be at least 21 years of age and judged capable by the school principal; also, in no case would a privately owned vehicle carry more than two people in the front seat and no more than three in any other row seat.

Miller asked Taylor if safety rating had been obtained for types and models of cars, stating, "I feel it's a very important part of our problem."

"It just seems to me," Wilsdon said, "that van type vehicles are inherently dangerous. Period."

Taylor said he didn't know how to rate vehicles or where to go to get the rating, but was told by a member of the audience that the district's insurance carrier would have the vehicle rating.

The rating will be obtained and brought back to a future meeting when the revision undergoes further study.

Statewide school tax worries district

For the past five years, basic aid school districts such as the Carmel Unified School District have been threatened by the possible passage of a statewide school tax.

Such a tax would result in the residents of wealthier school districts -- like Carmel and Beverly Hills - paying a higher school tax than they are now while their schools would receive less support than they presently are.

The tax is designed to equalize education on a statewide basis, by using its revenues to financially aid poorer school districts, especially those in urban areas.

Carmel Superintendent Harris A. Taylor describes the proposed statewide tax as being akin to the "Chicken Broth Law," a folk legend whereby a woman who owns two chickens - one healthy, one sick - kills the health one to feed its broth to the sick bird.

For the tax to be effective by July 1, and thus affecting Carmel unified's fiscal 1971-72 budget, or, in the words of the district's business manager, Walter E. Hinton, "...devastating our budget," the state legislature would have to pass the tax under an emergency clasue.

Asked the chances of this happening, Hinton replies:

"I don't have the foggiest notion. I call people in Sacramento and ask them, and they say, 'We don't have the fanitest idea.' "

"The one thing in favor of this bill not passing," Hinton said at last week's meeting of the school district's board of education, is that the San Francisco school system could lose $20 million and, because the bill would set aside just $30 million to aid urban districts, the San Francisco system would not likely receive enough aid to make up its deficit.

Hinton reported to the board of education that the Carmel district, if the bill passes, would lose $916,000 despite a minimum tax rate of $3.37 per $100 assessed valuation as compared to an anticipated 1971-72 tax rate of $2.722.

To maintain the present level of instruction, Hinton said, in addition to the $3.37 tax the disctict would have to add an $0.856 permissive override tax to recover the $916,000 loss, $0.131 in permissive overrides to finance adult school, building repayments and community recreational services, and $0.187 as an allowed increase over the 1969-70 average cost per average daily attendance rate.

Added together, these figures make a possible 1971-72 school tax rate of $4.544, up $1.822 from the anticipated $2.722 and representing a 67 percent increase.

Hinton said the tax would result in an inverse slant to the "rich get richer" statement: "The rich are getting poorer, the poor getting richer."

"The whole point of the legislation," Trustee Hilton Bialek said, "is to penalize the richer school districts."

If the statewide tax becomes a reality, Bialek added, the board of education would have no recourse but to raise the tax rate.

Taylor said that the district could try to recoup losses by reducing the teaching staff -- teachers' salaries being by far the largest single segment of the budget -- and changing the teacher student ratio from 25 to one, as it presently is, to 30 or 32 to one.

However, he added that this would "not help much" because, according to state requirements, the district would have to let go of teachers relatively new to the district who do not have salaries as large as teachers with senority.

"There's going to have to be something done as far as this legislation goes," Taylor said.

Hinton pointed out that while Carmel's tax would go up and its income decrease under the statewide tax, the Monterey Peninsula Unified School District and Pacific Grove Unified School District's tax rates would drop while their income increased.

Carmel district taxpayers, he said, "would probably break even" in their support of Monterey Peninsula College, with the chance of a slight savings.

While the proposed statewide tax has failed to make it through the legislature in five years time, Hinton said it has been gaining more and more support.

More apartments planned for C.V. Village area

The Upper Valley Advisory Committee will meet at 8 a.m. Friday to discuss several applications involving use permits and design approval in the Village area.

Under consideration will be an application by Larry Cummings for a use permit to put four-plexes on two separate commercially-zoned parcels -- the lot between the Village Art Center and the Patricia Wester ballet studio on Pilot Road, and a parcel he owns jointly with Lou Gardner adjoining Rippling River School.

Also on the agenda are applications by Dr. Gerald Petkus for a use permit and design approval for a new animal hospital next to his present veterinary clinic in the Village, and design approval for a sign for the Buckeye Restaurant, formerly the Casa Carmela, on Carmel Valley Road.

And finally, Pebble Beach developer Robert Bolman will be asking approval for a variance to allow a large sign on the planned movie theater for the "Valley Ford" project (see separate story).

The committee's meeting will be held at the Community Center, and it is open to the public.

School board rejects $1 million accident claim

A Santa Cruz man has filed a $1 million claim for damages against the Carmel Unified School District. The board of education rejected the claim at its meeting last week.

The claimant, John A. Zvone, 41, asks for $50,000 in past and future medical expenses and $950,000 for general damages - residual disability and pain and suffering.

Zvone, who is represented by the Santa Cruz law firm of Britton and Jackson, was one of the drivers involved in a two-vehicle accident in which a Carmel school physical education instructor, 23-year-old Sharon Elliot, and two students, Bonnie Brussell, 14, and Cecilia Neill, 16, were killed on Dec. 15, 1970, on Highway 1 north of Marina.

Miss Brussell and Miss Neill and six other students who were injured were passengers in Miss Elliott's microbus when it collided with Zvone's car during a rainstorm.

Zvone was charged with vehicle manslaughter and drunk driving.

The students were returning from an instructional dance program at Cabrillo College when the accident occurred.

WOMAN'S CLUB TO HEAR TALK BY CHINESE EDUCATOR

"Asia In a Shrinking World" is the title of the lecture which Dr. Kyung Cho Chung will present to the Carmel Woman's Club on Monday, May 3, at 2 p.m.

Dr. Chung was born and raised in Seoul, Capital of South Korea. He was educated at Waseda University, Tokyo; Seoul National University; Department of Political Science, Columbia University; and the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, New York University. He has received an honorary Doctorate of Law from Pusan National University and a Doctorate of Literature from Sung Kyun Kwan University for his contribution through his writings toward better understanding and better relations between the United States and Korea.

Dr. Chung has also been cited for outstanding performance by the United States Army.

His writings include "Korea Tomorrow" and "New Korea"; and his forthcoming book, "Korea: The Third Republic", which will appear this fall. All are MacMillan publications.

In his travels Dr. Chung has been around the world, has made several trips to Asia and has attended many international conferences, including the International P.E.N. (poets, playwrights, essayists, editors, novelists) Congress held in Seoul last year.

Dr. Chung has been a faculty member of the Korean Department, Defense Language Institute (West Coast Branch) since 1951.

Mrs. F.C. Galland, Program Chairman, will introduce Dr. Chung.

Pouring at the tea following the lecture will be Mmes. Clare Appleby, A. Jordan Burns, Phyllis Jervey, Wallace Lowry.

Hostesses greeting guests and members include Mmes. J.C. Hale, Trygve Johnson, G.P. Lamont, George D. Marshall, H.A. Prince, A.F. Svantesson, C.A. Trumbly, R.G. Watson.
